

IOS IORC <iorcommittee@gmail.com>

Re: Jackson Park Plumbeous Vireo report

1 message

Tom Schulenberg <[REDACTED]>
To: IORC <iorcommittee@gmail.com>

Mon, Sep 17, 2018 at 1:46 PM

Is there any chance you can send these additional materials soon? I am looking at the record right now and am writing up my votes and comments. It would help to have your original description (and earlier IORC submission if you have it?) in support of this write-up that comes 18 years after the fact.

18 years? or 28 years?

fwiw, I always was under the impression that IORC was perfectly aware of the record, but just wasn't moving on it. the last time Doug mentioned it was in April 2017, when he told me that "The Plumbeous Vireo is still in limbo, but Josh confirmed the existence of the documentation while searching for Paul's material [re Paul Clyne's Jackson Park Cassin's Vireo]. My guess is that Geoff will bring the Plumbeous Vireo to the fore sometime in the next few months".

so the original documentation reportedly still sits somewhere in IORC files, but perhaps would have stayed there forever if I hadn't submitted this to eBird. (news to you, perhaps, that last year you were on the cusp of bringing this to the fore?)

attached is the original submission (composed in WordPerfect, converted today to Word - which I assume makes it accessible more easily to IORC committee members), and the original description. feel free to add both to the IORC archives.

best wishes,

tss

--

Thomas S. Schulenberg
Research Associate
Cornell Lab of Ornithology
159 Sapsucker Woods Road
Ithaca NY 14850
<http://neotropical.birds.cornell.edu/portal/home>
<http://www.birds.cornell.edu/clementschecklist> voice: [REDACTED]

email: [REDACTED]

2 attachments

 Illinois report of Plumbeous Vireo.docx
20K

 Jackson Park Plumbeous Vireo original description.pdf
76K